There is little reliable news of events in the Far East, but there are numerous rumors unconfirmed and conflicting of battles. Another report of an engagement at Port Arthur has reached London. It states that eight Russiau vessels have been sunk and that ten have been captured by the Japanese. It lacks confirmation. Both sides are said to be concentrating their land forces on Yalu river, and a battle may be expected there soon. A report at Che Foo says three Russian tornedo boats were sunk by guns from the forts, the Russians mistaking them for Japanese vessels .- Courier Journal.
